Based on her many years' research into the conservation theory, (1-9), and our ongoing co-operation with Institut Seni Indonesia, Yogyakarta (10), Patricia Engel, scientific staff member of Department for Building and Environment at Danube University Krems, Austria, will hold a workshop on the ways of applying or adapting the European conservation theory to Indonesian cultural setup.

The workshop will not only seek to find a path towards a new conservation theory appropriate for Indonesia, but will also allow for discussion of problem points in the European conservation theory. Another result will be a theoretical scheme of approaching purposes for optimizing our systems, as well Google Maps for the use of depicting maps. By clicking on „OK“ or continuing to browse the site, you are
